

CONTENTS

Preface	(iii)
The Real India	1
Whose Government is This?	3
Democracy is a Failure in India	5
British Raj was a Blessing in Disguise	8
What's Wrong With the Parliamentary Form of Government?	11
Decentralisation of Power (or What Gandhi Stood For)	13
India is a Soft State	15
Criminalisation of Politics	18
Press and Human Society	20
The Indian Print Media	22
How Free is the Press?	24
We Cannot Do Without Censorship	26
The Social Status of Women in India	29
The Women's Reservation Bill	31
Approaches to Achieving Human Equality	34
Levels of Backwardness	36
Attitudes to Poverty	38
Beyond Social Justice	40
Secularism is Not Enough	42
The Task of Education	44
Limitations of Formal Education	46
Indians Lack in Patriotism	48
Indians are Non-Violent by Nature	51
The Greatness of Indian Culture is a Myth	54
Say No to Death Penalty	56

(vii)

Stress in Modern Life	59
Life is Beautiful	61
Humans are Selfish by Nature	63
Keys to Personal Freedom	66
Today's Youth is Wiser than the Youth of Yesteryears	68
Essentials of Job Satisfaction	71
Job Insecurity Leads to Higher Efficiency	72
Professionalism Can Be Dangerous	75
The Word "Impossible" Does Not Figure Only in the Dictionary of Fools	77
Every Solution Breeds More Problems	80
Challenges Before the Creative Individual Today	82
The Uncritical Society in which We Live	84
The Art of Dealing with Criticism	86
Why is it Easy to Criticise and Difficult to Praise Others?	88
A Question of Our Speech	90
The Art of Listening	92
Art and Morality	94
The Aesthetic Sense	96
Religion is Behaviour, Not Mere Belief	98
We Can Do Without God	100
Vegetarianism is a Better Way of Life	104
Family—Then and Now	107
One Can Do Without Marriage	109
A Couple Should Not Work at the Same Workplace	112
Parent-Child Relationship/Parents' Role in Child's Development	115
Sex Education in Schools is a Must	117
We Cannot Do Without English	120

(viii)

Internet Will Lead to the Death of the Printed Word	123
Good Manners	126
On Friendship	128
Prejudice	130
On Snobberies	131
Too Humble is Half Proud	133
On Flattery	134
Small Things Affect Small Minds	136
Consistency is the Hallmark of an Average Person	139
Compensations of Old Age	142
If Death Could be Under Human Control	144
If One Could Remember One's "Previous" Life	146
Sense of Humour	148
The Role of Cartoons in Our Life	150
Leisure	151
If There Were No Holidays	152
If There Were No Festivals	154
If There Were Only Happiness	156
On the Use of Cosmetics	158
The Disease Called Drinking	159
Position of Eunuchs in our Society	161
If All the Clocks of the World Stop Working	163
If Birds and Animals also Spoke Human Language	165